MISS DAINGERFIELD SPURNS SOCIETY TO CARE FOR HORSES

Has Equines to Value $1,125,000 Entrusted to Her Care, Including Morvich, Man o' War and Golden Broom

ACTIVE MANAGER OF HER FARM NEAR LEXINGTON

LEXINGTON, April 13.—"The companionship of horses is a lot more interesting than that of most people. You can depend on them—and show me the man who can say with truth that his vices are fewer than those of a horse."

That comes from Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield, daughter of southern aristocracy who has entree into the south's most exclusive social circles but who elects to spend most of her time with horse.

Miss Daingerfield is a super-handler of thoroughbred racing stock. She manages her own farm, Haylands, near here and besides is active manager of Far Away Farm, owned by Samuel Riddle of Maryland and Walter Jeffords of Philadelphia and Lexington.

Charges Worth Million

To Miss Daingerfield's care is entrusted a herd of world-famed racehorses, valued at more than $1,125,000!

Among them is the celebrated Morvich, winner of last year's Kentucky derby, whose owner, Benjamin Block, wouldn't take $200,000 for him, the unbeatable Man o' War, said to be worth $800,000, and Golden Broom, whose value is not even estimated.

Miss Daingerfield is the only woman in America who personally supervises the care of valuable horses with the one exception of Mrs. Edward Kane, active manager here for August Belmont, New York millionaire banker.

Besides her work in caring for equine celebrities, Miss Daingerfield is an extensive dealer in thoroughbred horses and her judgment is accepted unhesitatingly by experts in horse flesh.

Sells Horses, Too

Last year her private sales of racing-horse stock amounted to $50,000 and the year before her sales at the auction ring at Saratoga, N. Y., reached $37,000.

"It is with horses as Kipling says of women—you never can tell until you've tried them and then you can't be sure," Miss Daingerfield says.

"People who think horses are degenerating with the exception of a few bred for racing purposes are wrong. The horse will not disappear—there'll always be a place for him."

Demand for thoroughbred horses has increased since the war.

Infant Die At Junction

Priest Says He Wants to Go to Electric Chair—Murder Culmination Long Ill Treatment

By Associated Press.

KALAMAZOO, Apr. 13.—Father Charles Dillon, assistant pastor of St. Augustine parish, who shot and killed his superior, Rev. Father Henry O'Neill, last night, today made a rambling statement saying he "knew before God and prayed some thing would happen to that man," and added, "I had no right in the world to kill Father O'Neill, not one right in the world. I took that in my own hands and killed him." He said he wanted to go to the state prison but would rather go to the electric chair, after a statement made by prosecuting attorney Wattles who said Dillon would be charged with murder. The killing, Dillon said, was the culmination of thirteen months ill treatment during which Dillon asserted O'Neill "treated me like a little boy and assumed toward me the attitude of a czar."

RED ROBERTS IS IN MIDDLESBORO

Soliciting Funds for Centre College Stadium—Will Visit Business Men Tomorrow

"Red" Roberts, famous Centre College football hero, is in Middlesboro today and tomorrow in the interest of the proposed new Centre College stadium. He will solicit funds from Middlesboro citizens tomorrow to help build the stadium. "Give a barrel of cement," is the slogan that has been used in asking contributions to this fund. One hundred dollars will build a box for twelve persons on which will be put the donor's name plate to reserve it for him for the football games.

Roberts has met with splendid success in Pineville and Harlan and other places where he has been. The several Centre alumni here hope for equal success in Middlesboro. Roberts, in himself, is a celebrity. He was captain of the famous Centre football team last year and starred brilliantly the two years before. He has been All-American fullback the past two years.

FOR A BETTER MIDDLESBORO Specific improvements make up the details of a campaign for a BIGGER AND BETTER MIDDLESBORO, and a list is to be compiled of these details, for use from day to day. Today we are advocating:

That the swinging bridge across the canal, back of the school, be taken down. The bridge has been condemned, then ordered to be taken down, but still it swings, and the children use it.

That our passenger depot be made a cleaner, more sightly and more sanitary place at once, and that the utmost influence be brought to bear toward getting a new station.

That a general movement for street improvement be instituted immediately, with emphasis on repair and construction of Cumberland Avenue.

FIFTY-TWO HOURS
CONTINUOUS DANCING
SETS NEW MARATHON

CLEVELAND, O., Apr. 13.—Miss Uelene Mayer, 21, Cleveland saleswoman, is the new marathon dancing champion of the world with a new record established yesterday of 52 hours and 16 minutes. This breaks the record set in New York last Monday by Miss Alma Cummings of 50 hours and 2 minutes by 2 hours and 13 minutes. Miss Mayer started dancing at 9:35 a. m., Tuesday and finished at 1:51 p. m. yesterday. She danced with seven partners, making ten changes.

During her performance Miss Mayer wore out six pairs of stockings and four pairs of shoes; took seven rest periods of three minutes each; yore out three orchestras and four piano players and danced approximately 50 miles.

At the conclusion of her endurance test Miss Mayer was examined by a physician who reported her limbs badly swollen but asserted "she would have been good for four or five hours more." Her weight had dropped from 113 to 108 pounds.

During the 52-hour period Miss Mayer partook of malted milk, soup and sandwiches without stopping her dance.

NEW BRIDGE OVER SPILLWAY TO FERN LAKE COMPLETE

The new bridge over the spillway at Fern Lake is entirely completed, according to W. C. Stair, manager of Kentucky Utilities company here. The new structure which was built to supplement the old bridge which had become practically impassable for vehicles is constructed of heavy timbers and will last for many years. It has been built for the convenience of the public, the K. U. company not requiring such a bridge for its own use.

CAR OWNERS MUST PAY CITY LICENSES BEFORE MAY 1

Owners of cars who have not paid their city license must do so before May 1 or warrants will be issued for them, according to Frank Kearns, city collector. A number of persons have bought new cars and have failed to procure license, he said, and there are many others who do not obey the city license laws.

TO COOPERATE IN CLEAN UP

Merchants Will Aid Woman's Club in City-Wide Campaign Beginning April 23

The Merchants' Association will co-operate with the Woman's Club in the proposed city-wide clean up campaign and the two organizations are now planning an extensive program, though the details for the different phases of the campaign have not been worked out.

Members of the association will set the example to others by decorating their own windows in an appropriate yet inexpensive manner. A committee from the Woman's Club will call on the various merchants in the interest of this work. From this initial improvement, the work will be carried on to other things until the entire city has been touched by the campaign.

S. M. Reams, secretary of the Merchants' Association, says that all members are interested in the clean-up campaign and that all have promised their utmost support and cooperation. The association voted to aid in the work three weeks ago, but the heads of the two organizations did not get together on the proposition until yesterday.

PLAY BASEBALL AT HARLAN TOMORROW

Middlesboro High Goes to Neighbor Town for First Game of Season

The opening baseball game of the season for both Middlesboro and Harlan will take place at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when the M. H. S. team plays the Harlan high school team on the latter's field. Prof. R. F. Porter, athletic director, and his team will leave for Harlan early tomorrow morning and return in the evening. Principal Leroy Lewis and others from the faculty or student body will accompany the players.

Though M. H. S. has hopes of winning the game, the team realizes that it will take hard playing. The local team has not had a great deal of practice while the Harlan team, it is understood, under the leadership of Paul Meek, has a well trained team. The M. H. S. line-up follows:

Sneed Fryer, first base; Russ Brown, second base; Bill Evans, third base; Henry Sewell, shortstop; Roy Lambert, centerfield; Neil Callison, right field; Clarence Spangler, left field; Ben VanBeber, catcher; Raymond Hobbs and Rondle Hollifield, substitutes. Doyle Burch, an eighth grade boy who has had little practice but who has indicated that he has ability, will pitch the game.

URGE PROMOTION
HEALTH CONTEST

State Doctor Asks Local Women to Assuage Diffidence Girls Entering Contest

Mrs. D. G. Hinks has received a letter from Dr. A. T. McCormack, secretary of the State Board of Health, urging her to help, through the Woman's Club, in promoting interest in Middlesboro in the Hygeia Health Contest to find the most perfect girl in Kentucky. There have been no applicants yet in Bell county to enter this contest. Application blanks for the contest were sent Mrs. Hinks and may be had by calling her. Part of the letter follows:

"The entrance of several thousand young women in this contest will ascertain for them whether or not they are up to the standard of physical and mental womanhood that we would have them meet. Moreover, many other young women will take example from the results of the contest and strive for better things for themselves and for posterity."

"I am hopeful that the members of the Federation Clubs will take a serious and active interest in this matter and bring it to the attention of as many young women as possible with the purpose that they shall enter the contest, thus conferring definite benefit upon them and upon the commonwealth of Kentucky."

"There is a natural timidity upon the part of many possible entrants which the older women may easily assuage for them."

"Similar contests in other states have proven of tremendous advantage in gaining a health consciousness on the part of the public generally and we feel it will do as much for the people of Kentucky."

CITY PRISONERS AT WORK CLEANING UP STREETS

City prisoners are now being utilized to clean up the streets. Dirt, paper and other rubbish which had long been accumulating on Cumberland avenue near the curbing on the block between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets were cleaned up yesterday and hauled off in wheelbarrows, the only vehicle the city provides for the purpose.

It seems that there is no regular dumping ground for such garbage and property owners object to it being deposited on vacant lots away from the main street. Yesterday the refuse was taken to the canal.

BOTH LEGS BROKEN BY ROLLING LOG AT BUCKEYE HOLLOW

Both legs of Jim Lingar were broken by a rolling log at Buckeye Hollow Fork Ridge yesterday afternoon. The injured man was sent to the Brosheer-Brummett hospital where his condition was reported as favorable today.

Mr. Lingar was working at a logging job for George VanBeber. A log which was being drawn or "snaked" along the hill rolled down against him breaking his legs. He was carried to the road and placed in a vehicle and brought to the hospital, arriving there four hours after the accident occurred.

TO REPAIR ROAD BETWEEN CLAIBORNE TWIN CITIES

TAZEWELL, Apr. 13.—The county stone crusher has recently been taken on the H. Y. Hughes farm near here for the purpose of crushing rock with which to re-macadamize the road between here and New Tazewell. The road at present is very much worn and this improvement will be greatly appreciated especially by automobilists.

TAKING NO CHANCES
ON FRIDAY, 13TH, JINX, SPENDS DAY IN BED

By Associated Press

MACON, Ga., Apr. 13.—J. A. Farham business man, is spending the day in bed, apparently to avoid a jinx. He has lost the sight of an eye, broken arm, broken a leg and mashed a foot. They all happened on the thirteenth of various months. Last month on the thirteenth a fire destroyed his garage. Today's combination of Friday and the thirteenth of the month was too much for him.

DESERTED BY SOLDIER HUSBAND, WIFE DEPENDS ON SALVATION ARMY

Married in Germany and brought from her native home to Middlesboro sixteen months ago, Mrs. Eu Carter, mother of two small children is now disowned and deserted by her husband. The Salvation army is making efforts to find for her a home out in the country where she may, by doing housework, support her two children.

According to Mrs. C. Cutbert and Mrs. Breighenbach who have had charge of the case, Ed Carter, a Middlesboro man and a soldier in Germany after the war, married the girl and brought her here. She has marriage certificates, passports and other papers to prove her claims. Carter worked at the Fork Ridge mines and contributed to the support of his wife here until recently.

Mrs. Carter went to Fork Ridge Monday to find out why her husband had not come home. Carter is said to have denied being her husband and the father of her children. It is reported also that he has been posing as a single man. Without waiting to change clothing he left Fork Ridge and has not been seen since. Officers are looking for him.

The woman is educated and refined and entirely unaccustomed to receiving charity. One of her children is eight months of age while the other is nearly two years old. She is depending mainly upon the Salvation army for support now.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. HILL HELD

Ceremony At Church Today Impressive—Many Floral Offerings From Here and Knoxville

Funeral services for Mrs. L. D. Hill were conducted at the First Baptist church at 1 o'clock this afternoon. One of the largest crowds that has ever attended such a service here was present. The entire seating capacity of the church was filled. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. L. Powell, acting pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. W. K. McClure. The choir sang "Asleep in Jesus" and "A-bide With Me."

The talk made by the Rev. Powell was brief but impressive. He referred to the religious life and activities of the deceased and particularly to her devotion to her family. The Rev. McClure conducted the opening prayer and the scriptural reading.

After the church service, the long funeral procession was formed and proceeded to Hurst cemetery where the remains of Mrs. Hill were laid to rest. Knoxville and Middlesboro friends and firms joined in contributing one of the most beautiful floral displays ever had at a local funeral. Among the local organizations that gave floral tributes were: Kiwanis Club, Euclid Sunday school class, Barnea class, Woman's Missionary Union, Ann of Ava Circle, Eastern Star, Masonic Lodge, Shriners, and Palace of Sweets. Flower wreaths from Knoxville were given by: Mouncastle and Hill, American Clothing company, Bell Avenue Baptist church, Metropolitan Insurance company and the Eastern Hospital. Roses, carnations, lilies, sweet peas of all kinds and colors, all done in artistic and appropriate wreaths formed the expressions of love and sympathy from her innumerable friends.

By Associated Press.

REPUBLICANS TAKE
SURVEY OF 1924
POLITICAL OUTLOOK

Hold Series of Conferences to Discuss Party Policies and Candidates, Particularly Convention City and National Campaign

WILL HAYS MAY BE REINSTATED NATIONAL CHAIRMAN

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 13.—A comprehensive survey of the Republican outlook for 1924 has been made during the past few days in a series of conferences involving most of the titular leaders of the party. Not only men and policies but such questions as the state party treasury and the choice of the next convention city were actively discussed. No definite conclusions were announced but the net result was to advance still further the season of pre-convention activities already far ahead of the usual political calendars.

The conferences brought together such men as national chairman John Adams national treasurer Alfred Upham, several members of the cabinet and senators. In the near future Col. George Harvey and two former national chairmen, Charles D. Hilles, New York, and Will Hays, Indiana, are expected here for conference. Political gossip credits friends of Hays are making efforts to reinstate him as national chairman and it would occasion no surprise if Harvey who is coming from his post at London would resign as ambassador to Great Britain to take active part in the campaign.

"A WOMAN AND HER MONEY", EVANGELIST'S TALK TONIGHT

The service last night was a good one and well-attended. The sermon subject was "A Searching Question," and the Rev. Callis treated it in his usual intensive matter.

CHARLESTON, Apr. 13.—Legislation against the teaching as true of "either Darwinism or any hypothesis that there is blood relationship between man and animals" was urged by William Jennings Bryan in an address before the West Virginia legislature today. "Do not put penalties in your law," he said. "No man who believes he has the blood of a brute in him will be a martyr for anything."

A THOUGHT

If thou hast done foolishly in lift-

MIDDLESBORO
STREETS

When every person who visits our town registers a protest on the condition of our city streets, when every progressive citizen in the town has reached the point where he is even ashamed to apologize for them any more, the fact is almost brought out that there is some thing the matter with Middlesboro streets. What are we going to do about it?

Middlesboro has prospered during the past few years. New business buildings, new schools, more homes and greatly increased bank deposits testify to this. But what does all this amount to if our streets are to continue in a condition of disrepair and untidiness that repels all persons who visit here and keeps many more from even coming because of the reports they get?

Our Cumberland Avenue is disgraceful, with man-holes in it large enough for a child to become lost in, with the whole distance from Twenty-second street to Tenth street so rough that a car is racked to pieces driving its length, and with dirt allowed to accumulate there to wear greater holes and but small attempt to remedy the condition anywhere.

Chester avenue, the next street over,
resembles nothing so much as a lake—
even when it is dry it resembles a lake bed. This is the closest street directly parallel to the main avenue and should by all means be accessible. Now, however, it is scarcely passable even in the best weather. Other streets are correspondingly bad.

Property owners, especially those whose property abuts Cumberland avenue have expressed a willingness to pay for repairs, even for entire reconstruction which would not be necessary here if attended to in time. Others undoubtedly hold the same opinion. All the city has to do is to survey these streets, the repair or construction of which an ordinance already provides and for which specifications have already been prepared. After the survey, contracts are to be let, and there the city's trouble ends and the property owners' begin.

What is the city waiting for? They waited for it to get spring, and it is already sprung. They have referred matters to council committees innumerable, but even these must have had time to come to some conclusion by now. If the city does not intend to do any thing, it is the duty of the citizens to direct the attention and intention of those in charge of city affairs until they do take some action.

BUSINESS STILL ON ADVANCE

The past month has witnessed a further advance of industry and trade.
Business growth has now reached the stage where those who up to this beginning to get some tangible result have been "looking on" are now suits.

In our judgment business at present is following a course which is charted largely by the present industrial expansion. Certain important lines, it is true, are setting a pace which appears to be out of keeping with industry as a whole.

It is not the use but the misuse of

THE ODD ONE OF THE FAMILY

opportunities brought about by the present business expansion which may lay the foundation for future difficulties. It is the latter which provokes inquiry as to whether business is sound or whether we might possibly be on the edge of another inflation period.

Business in many lines at the present time is highly competitive and it seems that this will act as a balancing factor in preventing us from going too fast.

Then, too, there does not appear to be that tendency to let price advances lead to abnormal buying policies such as were experienced a few years ago.

Considering these facts we feel that business at the present time is reasonably healthy. "The makings of prosperity are here. We are entitled to them. How long they last will depend largely upon how we use them."

There is one phase of the present business situation which we feel should be studied carefully at this time. It is the placing of orders in three or four different places to insure the delivery of goods. Production was led astray by this practice a few years ago, but we believe it will be on the lookout for any repetition of this sort of thing.—April Business Review.

THE OPEN FORUM

Editor Daily News:

Some time ago a load of slag was dumped near the corner of Cumberland avenue and Twelfth street, presumably for the purpose of filling holes in the street. The slag is still there and no attempts have been made to mend the bad places.

If the city can't have any paving work done on Cumberland avenue and other principal streets they could at least fill up the holes so that it would be safe to drive over it. Why doesn't it do it? The slag is furnished free of charge and the hauling and filling would be the only expense and even this could be done by city prisoners.
It appears to me that there is a deliberate effort on the part of the city government to let the streets go completely to ruin.

The county has mended the road
up to the overhead bridge the begining of the city limits. Other outlying districts have repaired roads with slag.
Of course it would only be a makeshift job but it would at least make the principal streets passable.

Are we, the citizens of Middlesboro,
to stand idly by and let such conditions continue? Surely some steps should be taken to have these streets fixed.

Respectfully yours,

A CITIZEN.

The Tangle

FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRES-COTT TO PRISCILLA BRAD-FORD

MY DEAR PRISSEY:

It was very disappointing to me and I presume you were disappointed, too, that you were called home by the illness of your mother before the wedding.

I would not write to you in this fashion did I not know your mother, Mehitable Bradford, very well, and I was sure you would find as you did that her illness was more a case of selfishness and a desire to have you entirely to herself. You know I tried to persuade you when you got the telegram that this was so. But you, as a dutiful daughter, felt that you must return home only to find that my prognostications were perfectly correct.

Whatever I may think, my dear Prissy, of this union between my son and Leslie Hamilton, between a man whose ancestors have been statesmen, judges, artists and professional men,
to the daughter of a man whose early years were spent amid the sweat of a steel mill, I must say that the wedding of John and Leslie was very beautiful.

There was, perhaps, too much pomp of convention and pageantry of wealth, but nevertheless everything went off
better than I expected.

Mrs. Hamilton must have had somewhere among her forebears people of culture and refinement.

Leslie, as you know, is a very beautiful girl. I am afraid that her beauty was the lure which drew my son's heart to her while others of greater worth were passed by.

There were six bridesmaids and a train of honor, with accompanying escorts for each as they walked back in the marriage train from the altar.

I almost felt, dear Prissy as I should probably feel if I were looking upon the dead face of my son as I saw him take the ring from his friend, a Mr. Sydney Cartou, and place it upon Leslie's finger.

There was a look upon his face that I had never seen before. Even to me, his mother, he had never given such a glance of utter adoration.

I cannot tell you that feeling that I had. Cold hands clasped my heart.
Do all mothers feel this way? I think not.

There has always been such a great understanding between John and me, and while, of course, I have not seen as much of him since he left his home to go to Albany, yet I have always tried to keep in touch with him
by writing him letters of admonition and advice.

On the day of the wedding, however,
when I looked at that beautiful girl beside him, I felt some way as though my boy had gone away from me. I knew that I had nothing in common with his wife and I suddenly felt that I had grown old and never again would my boy listen to my counsel. She was of another time, almost another race. Her gods were not my gods, and yet Prissy, I must tell you a great surprise I had.

The night before the wedding, after they had had a rehearsal of the ceremony—this seemed to me almost sacrilege—Leslie came to me and put her arms about me and laid her cheek against mine. It is soft and flower-like, Prissy, I felt a tug at my heart especially when she said:

"Dear Mrs. Prescott, I shall never be able to thank you enough for giving me that beautiful desk. Already it has filled a place in my life that I never expected to have filled, already it has brought to me the knowledge that I am no different from other women who have peopled this earth because I know that all the women who have sat at that desk have loved as I love your son."

I did not tell her, my dear Prissy, that probably the women of that romantic period of French history who had sat at that desk had not been women of chastity and virtue. I did not want to sully her ideals.

Instead I asked her, "Have you found the secret drawer?" and she answered with a smile, "The drawer is still a secret."

I am sorry to say that this answer dispelled this newfound joy that I had in my prospective daughter-in-

IN MEMORIAM

'Gene's dead, I shall not sit with him
beside the glowing fire,
And argue over all the things we used to fight about;
The Bolsheviks in Russia, or the foreign trade of Tyre,
The cause of socialism, or the simplest
cure for gout;
We disagreed so joyously, we battled with such vim
On every subject in the world, on each topic that arose;
He never changed my views a bit, nor could I alter him,
And who was right and who was wrong—well, now perhaps he knows!

'Gene's dead, the stubborn, whimsical, undisillusioned soul

Whose hair was grizzled with the years, but who, at heart, in truth Kept at a youngster's gaiety. The sensible took no toll
Of that perennial eagerness which is the test of youth.

I'll miss the glint of humor and of battle in his eyes.

But maybe I shall see him when I leave this "vale of tears,"
And I shall find him arguing up there in paradise

With Plato and with Socrates and others of his peers!

RUGS IMPORTANT IN FURNISHINGS

Plain Rugs Most Artistic but Those With Small Designs Best Common Use

Floor coverings are used to give warmth, protection to the floor, lessen noise and contribute to the decorative scheme of the room. Rugs, the most satisfactory floor coverings under most conditions should be about the same color value as the floor and should be placed parallel with the lines of the room. A guide to color treatment in a room is, "Floor darkest, walls lighter, ceiling lightest."

Plain rugs are artistic but costly and tend to bring out the defects in furniture. Rugs of several subdued colors in small designs are best suited for use where the furniture is rather nondescript. However, designs in rugs should be chosen with care. The conventional design always is good, but animal heads and flowers were not meant to walk on. The most common rugs and carpets on the market are the ingrain, Brussels, Wilton, Velvet and Axminster. In addition, there are numerous types of oriental and rag rugs as well as fiber and grass rugs and matting. All of these may be divided into three classes—the cut, uncut and nobile.

Old carpets and rugs may be made over into new rugs which are very attractive in color. The old material is cut into strips about three-fourths of an inch wide, these strips when sewed together and twisted making a cord, something like chenille, which forms the filling for the new rug. Cotton string is used for the warp. These rugs are heavy and soft, alike on both sides and durable, provided they are cleaned carefully. Generally, they are rather neutral in color and without a definite design, although borders may be woven from strips of carpet of solid color. It usually takes about six and a half pounds of old carpet to make a square yard of re-woven fabric. Old rugs or carpets may be done up into rolls and sent to farms that will clean them and make them into very attractive rugs at a comparatively low cost.

"Jack Frost" Salt is better.

EGGS FOR SUPPER

Allow one hard-boiled egg for each person to be served, and two or three extra ones. In "boiling" the eggs place them in cold water, bring water to a boil and cook gently for 20 minutes. Pour off the boiling water and cover the eggs with cold water until ready to serve.

Remove shells, cut in halves lengthwise and remove yolks. Mash yolks and add melted butter, salt, pepper and any finely chopped bits cold meat left over. Fill the egg whites with this mixture and press the two halves together. Have ready as many slices of tomato as there are eggs and two or three leaves of lettuce for each serving.

On the lettuce place the tomato slices, and on each slice of the tomato place an egg. Pour over this a spoonful of mayonnaise, to which has been added chili sauce or tomato ketchup allowing two tablespoons of chili sauce or tomato ketchup to each cup of mayonnaise.

Serve with these eggs olives and hot biscuits, or bread and butter sandwiches.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

By Charles P. Stewart

The Turks have always been clever at keeping others whom they fear divided among themselves.

They didn't succeed as well as usual at the last Near Eastern conference at Lausanne. However, they got the conference postponed to gain time. Now it's about to reopen, they've got things scrambled thoroughly.

Americans have been fixed with an oil laden concession in Asiatic Turkey to rival England's.

The Bagdad Railroad question's been reopened. Germany, beaten in the war is out of it, but the United States has been brought in.

Trade with Persia's at stake.

There's talk of connecting Turkey and western China by rail.

Besides her oil rights, England's been set to worry over the safety of her back door into India from the north. France, with a Near Eastern foothold in Syria, doesn't want to see the United States get a better foothold yet. Japan close to China on the east side, sees her trade endangered if another power builds a railroad from the west. Russia's interest in the whole disputed area is enormous.

So the next meeting's liable to be, not so much a conference between Turkey and the powers as a squabble among the powers themselves with the Turks bargaining, here and there, wherever the trading looks best, and maybe getting pretty much of anything they want.

Big Business Plans

The iron, steel and coal magnates continue to discuss settlement of the Ruhr question. E. H. Gary's talk with Hugo Stinnes makes it look as if America were taking a part—as between magnates, not as a governmental matter.

Sir Allan Smith, the English captain of industry, wants an economic alliance including his country, America, Germany and Russia.

Other Britons who favor his plan say a combination like this would be too strong for France.

They declare England wants to rehabilitate all Europe. The think America wants the same thing. They believe Germany wants it too, as a means of rehabilitating herself. In Sir Allan's opinion, even the soviet rulers can see that general improvement would be for Russia's good.

But Sir Allan complains that France cares about rehabilitating nothing but herself. That's why he leaves her out of his scheme.

Largest Tragedy In Russia

Russia, however, seems likely to get less recognition than some people favored according to her, because of the execution of Mgr. Butchkevitch, Roman Catholic vicar-general there on a charge of opposing the soviet government.

The understanding was that Mgr. Butchkevitch, though condemned, would not be actually be executed, but the Moscow rulers lost their tempers over the storm of protest they received from other governments, and to have him put to death against their original intention, to show they could do as they pleased, regardless of the rest of the world's wishes.

The results is that many people in other lands who had been in favor of giving them at least commercial recognition, have switched over to the side of those who oppose any relations whatever with such a regime.

South Of The Line

Every time the North-American delegates to the Pan-American conference in Chile speaks of the good will their country feels toward the southern republics, they get an answering reference to the loan of the United States naval experts to help Brazil strengthen her sea-fighting force.

For instance, South America's leading newspaper, La Prensa, of Buenos Aires, quotes Deputy Queros of the Brazilian congress to the effect that Brazil will be "ready for war in two years." La Prensa adds that she's making these preparations "under tutelage of the United States."

Argentina's the country which considers herself chiefly threatened by Brazil, but La Prensa accuses the United States of stirring up this militarism in Peru also. This hits Chile.

Uruguay is reported sore because the United States turned down her League of American Nations scheme.

But in the Pan-American convention hall the South American delegates pretend everything is all right.

English Political Outlook

London cables mention in the same breath gains in Labor's political strength in England and corresponding Conservative gains there, too.

There's nothing contradictory in this. Times are hard in England. This makes votes for the Labor party, which favors change. It's a tendency which the Conservatives consider dangerous, and they're drawing together for defensive purposes.

Consolidation of the Conservative lines is hastened by the general conviction that Andrew Bonar Law, the Conservative party leader, can't last as premier much longer. When he goes out, unless the Conservatives are clearly in a majority in Parliament a Labor premier will come in. Many Englishmen who, on party issues, disagree with the Conservatives, are Conservatives nevertheless rather than radicals, as the British Laborites, in their opinion are. So, for the expected period of stress, they're getting over toward the Conservative side.

Following Bonar Law, whenever he drops out, there may be a Labor premier—for a very little while.

TWO MEN JUST ALIKE; COURTS FAIL TO DECIDE WHICH IS HER HUSBAND

LEFT TO RIGHT: PAUL SIERRO, SAM SERPE, AND MRS. IRENE H. SIERRO WITH BABY BILLY

By Roy Grohans

CHICAGO, April 10—A comedy of errors here has developed into a tragedy.

Gurgling two-year-old Billy Sierro is the innocent victim of an amazing tangle which even the courts have failed to solve.

And Mrs. Irene Hayes Sierro has turned to science and has asked it by means of blood tests to determine who is her husband and the father of her baby, born in legal wedlock!

The first act of this drama took place in 1919 when Irene Hayes became the wife of one Paul Sierro, according to a marriage license, duly signed, which she now offers in evidence. From this union, baby Billy was born.

Two Of Him

When brought into court here the other day to answer a charge of non-support, the husband appeared in the form of two men.

One called himself Sam Serpe. The other said his name was Paul Sierro. Each bore a striking resemblance to the other.

But they seemed to have interchangeable names. Sierro it was said at the hearing was often known as Serpe and Serpe sometimes called himself Sierro.

"Which of these is your husband?" asked the judge.

The wife pointed to Sierro.

"And the father of your child?" the court queried.

"Yes."

"Your honor, she's wrong," said the man calling himself Serpe. "I'm her husband. But I'm only the baby's stepfather."

"You lie! You lie!" the wife screamed.

"How about this, Sierro?" the court resumed.

"Never Saw Her"

"Never saw her before in my life," came the answer.

"But he is my husband. I lived with him three years. Here's his name on the marriage license," pleaded the wife.

Then the court acted.

"Both of you," he said, addressing the two men, "step forward and write the words Paul Sierro."

The magistrate compared the handwriting specimens with that on the marriage license.

They were almost identical.

The court was dumfounded.

"Let's let the baby decide," he then suggested. "Let it pick out its daddy."

The wife took the little one into her arms and offered it first to Sierro. The baby was indifferent.

"Come to me," pleaded Serpe. "I'm not your daddy. Only your stepdaddy. But come on anyhow."

Baby Won't Aid

Still Baby Billy registered indifference, and the judge wiped his brow. One more ray of hope remained.

The judge turned to the wife.

"Did your husband have any marks by which you might identify him?"

Only a mole behind his ear.

Then started a judicial search for the mole. It was found—in precisely the same place—on both men.

"Defendants discharged," ruled the court. "Take the case into the divorce chambers."

And that's how science has come to be entered in the cast.

Wild blackberries and dewberries grow over a wide range of territory. Among them are to be found some excellent native varieties, but the cultivated sorts that have been developed are far superior.

Both blackberries and dewberries are adapted for growing in home gardens as they follow raspberries and strawberries and provide a continuous supply of fresh fruit for the table. About fifteen hills of each or a combined row 90 feet in length will yield about enough berries for the ordinary family.

Blackberries are started by planting the suckers of the young plants that come up from the extended roots of the old plants, or pieces of roots from the old plants may simply be buried at a depth of two or three inches where the hills are wanted. The planting of the suckers is best for the home garden.

The canes formed one year bear the fruit the following season and then should be removed. The strong growing canes should be pinched back during the summer so that they form branches and do not become too high.

Blackberries that grow wild in patches support one another, but in the garden, where the hills are spaced about three or four feet apart, the young and tender canes are liable to be broken off at the base by the wind unless they are tied to the supports. A good way to support the blackberry plants is to drive a long stake about four feet high in the row beside each hill, then stretch about three strands of galvanized wire on the stakes and tie the canes to the wires.

Dewberries are similar to blackberries in most respects, except that they creep along the ground and form new plants by rooting at their tips. Set the plants in the early spring three feet apart in the row and allow the canes to lie on the ground the first season. Early the following spring drive a row of stakes and stretch wires upon them, forming a trellis to which the canes may be tied.

Dewberries are pruned very much the same as other berries by cutting out the old canes after fruiting and clipping back the new growth, if the canes grow longer than five or six feet. If more than five or six canes are formed in each hill thin out the weaker ones. Dewberries give better results in the south than blackberries.

In cold regions, dewberry canes winter-kill badly unless they are protected. One method of protecting the plants is to loosen the wires from the stakes and lay the wires and canes upon the ground, then cover with straw or earth. In the early spring the covering is carefully removed and the wires fastened back in place without taking the canes off of them.

Logan blackberries are adapted to growing on the Pacific Coast by do not thrive in the south or east. The loganberry is of the trailing type and resembles the dewberry in its habit of growth. It is a very strong grower, sometimes producing canes 20 feet long. The canes should be grown on the ground the first season and then tied up like dewberries.

TIME TO START SPRING DRIVE AGAINST MOSQUITO

LOUISVILLE, April 13—The spring drive against mankind's ancient enemy, the mosquito, should begin at once in all communities whose people enjoy sitting on their lawns after supper without having to barricade themselves behind screens, according to F. C. Dugan, Director of Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the State Board of Health.

"It is a question of whether you prefer to have stagnant pools in your neighborhood or no mosquitoes," Mr. Dugan said yesterday. "Within sixty days, while the farmers are busy planting their crops, the mosquito tribe will be just as busy planting their millions of eggs in all pools within flight distance of your home."

Stress was laid by Mr. Dugan on the fact that the mosquito is not only an unpleasant companion but an actual menace to health. The malaria carrying mosquito is the cause of high sick rates in many small rural communities, which could enjoy immunity from stings and sickness and make their towns more attractive to visitors if a small amount of effort was expended during the mosquito breeding season.

Though Today He Is Well

—but Read His Letter—

"Gentlemen—A short time ago I doubted that I would ever be out of misery again. For many months I suffered tortures with Rheumatism in my hands, feet and limbs, also with Kidney troubles that made life miserable. Various remedies were faithfully tried, but my troubles continued. I heard about REGENERATOR and bought a bottle. After taking it five days I was truly astonished at the improvement in my condition. By the time I had finished my second bottle every trace of the rheumatic pains had left me, and my kidneys were in perfect order. I can hardly realize I have so completely regained my health. I wish that I could tell every sufferer what your wonderful remedy will do for Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble sufferers. Edw. Hutchinson, Atlanta, Ga."

What Are You Doing—

about those everyday ills that are so common to all mankind? They bring unnecessary suffering because we are prone to neglect and disregard their importance—while they go on and develop into real trouble makers. Waste materials from stagnant and inactive kidneys or a torpid liver create impurities that creep into every fibre of the system, impoverishing the blood supply and tearing down the structure of our well-being. The results are Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Boils, Loss of Energy, Eclampsia, Nervous Headache, and many other distressing troubles. The entire system needs to be regenerated—the stagnation must be corrected; the waste materials thrown out and the blood purified before you can regain the strength and vitality that you are entitled to. REGENERATOR is one of the greatest known remedies by which such conditions are corrected. Get a bottle today. Price $1.00. Within five days you will be happily surprised at the results.
